

THE NAKED TRUTH

By Denis Langlois

Nude is back in a big way. Eyewear in neutral or "earth" tones, from beige to dark browns, can be seen on runways and in fashion magazines around the globe.

The great thing about these au naturel styles is that they go with pretty much every skin tone and outfit since they are stripped of loud, splashy colours, patterns or designs.

Nude frames are also timeless. Some companies have entire collections or lines dedicated to the "nude" trend, with frames in hues like honey, sesame, caramel and mocha. Here are some nude frames that are making us blush this month.
